Never have I been so proud

I'VE lived in Royal Greenwich for over 30 years and never have I been so proud. My letter is about the Olympic Equestarian. It has been a pleasure too see all the iconic features of our borough epitomized in the design of the fences which were used in the cross-country event. Royal Greenwich is truly a wonderful place of residency and is now on show for the world too see and what makes us so special. Whoever designed the

Why no wave for flotilla?

WHAT a fabulous sight it was to see the flotilla of ships coming up the river and passing Woolwich in glorious sunshine. My family and friends enjoyed a picnic in the waterfront park cheering and waving greetings. We could not believe that Woolwich had no official celebrations to greet them. Where were all the bands, stalls, local councillors, MPs and press? Oh yes, in Greenwich and the flotilla didn't even reach

The ships are moored at and sail from Woolwich and yet hardly anyone was there to welcome them. Many of those who were there, just happened to come to eat their lunch in the park. What a wasted opportunity to showcase the area and how sad that so little was made of it. We have since had a cruise on one of the ships and would recommend it to anyone. Come on, Woolwich, get your act together.

Traffic plans for the Paralympics

THE end of the Olympic Games means there will be some changes to the royal borough's temporary traffic controls.

But the majority will stay in place ready for the start of the Paralympics on Wednesday, August 29.

The restrictions were put in place to cope with the thousands of athletes, officials and visitors arriving and leaving during Games time.

Paralympics. But most of the Olympic Games Network, designed to keep Olympic traffic flowing between key sporting venues, will no longer be in operation. This applies particularly to the Games Lanes.

However, the restrictions on Charlton Park Lane and Maze Hill, including Park Vista and Park Row, will remain in place. Ha Ha Road remains closed too.

Another key measure that will continue until the end of the Paralympics is the royal borough's 'Resident and Business Parking Protection Area'. This began on July 27, and covers areas that are within 30 minutes' walk of the Games. It was put in place to encourage people to use public transport rather than drive to events.

Thousands of parking permits were issued to local residents and businesses by Games organisers LOCOG so people could continue to park near their premises and Borough's parks hailed as some of the best in the UK!

THIRTEEN parks and open spaces are flying the green flag in the royal borough after winning awards for being among the best

Green Flag awards were presented to hundreds of parks earlier this month as part of the national Green Flag scheme, run by Keep Britain Tidy, the Conservation Volunteers and GreenSpace.

Awards are presented each year to parks and green spaces which provide high quality, well managed open spaces for free to the public.

Each public park is thoroughly inspected and scored on its attractiveness, cleanliness and local involvement, as well as heritage and sustainability.

This year's Green Flag awardwinning parks in Royal Greenwich include:

- Avery Hill Park
- Eltham Park South
- Horn Park
- East Greenwich Pleasaunce
- Blackheath
- Sutcliffe Park
- Fairy Hill Park
- Charlton Park
- The Tarn
- •Well Hall Pleasaunce

Parks with Green Flag Community Awards:

- Twinkle Park
- Slade Ponds
- Plumstead Common Nature Reserve

The achievement follows a pledge by the Royal Borough of Greenwich increase the number of parks with Green Flag status to 12 as part of an Olympic legacy. Councillor Maureen O'Mara, cabinet member for community safety and environment, said: "Increasing the number of Green Flag awards is part of our Olympic sports legacy pledge, and we are delighted to surpass our target of twelve welcoming green spaces throughout the royal borough.

"We hope the 13 green flags will inspire residents and visitors to get involved with Royal Greenwich's huge range of parks and community projects in 2012."

Terry Powley, chair of the Greenwich Parks Forum, said: "The forum is delighted that the ambitious target of 12 green flags by 2012 has not just been achieved but over-reached.

Carole Thomas, Chair of the Friends of the Tarn in Eltham, said: "We are absolutely delighted to have the hard work and dedication of our volunteers recognized by this Green Flag award.

"Our volunteers have put in many hours of work to establish a butterflyfriendly garden, a frog pond, and to replant the overgrown flower beds and rockery in the Tarn.

"It is a fine example of how the local community can work with the council to make a big improvement to their local area. We would encourage others to get involved as you will make friends, have fun, improve your health, and however small your contribution, you can make a difference."

June Hurst, vice-chair of the Friends of Fairy Hill Park, said: "We are delighted to win the prestigious Green Flag award for the second time, which reflects the hard work and commitment of our membership and team of dedicated volunteers who work tirelessly throughout the year to improve Fairy Hill Park and provide community events and activities."

Top marks for centre's outdoor environment

A NATURE garden where under fives can hunt for spiders and snails was praised by Ofsted inspectors who visited a Plumstead

Staff at the Quaggy at Margaret Bondfield Children's Centre were celebrating the news that the centre was declared as "Outstanding" after their June inspection The centre in Raglan Road won praise for the stimulating resources available to children to help them widen their skills in learning and developing.

It was also hailed for its outdoor space with a nature garden and facilities for the children to explore the environment. Staff received particular praise for the strong bond they have with the children and parents that use the centre.

The area was cited as helping to improve the children's learning skills and flag up any issues or concerns that either staff or parents may have.

Inspectors noted that the partnership with parents is a key strength of the nursery. This helps to reassure parents in situations, such as the transition to primary school, and with extensive support sessions available to help ease any concerns they may have. The centre was also praised in the report for its diversity and equality and continuous

Trust manager Dawn Jacovou said: "The children, families and staff at Margaret Bondfield Children's Centre are thrilled to have been told by Ofsted that their centre is outstanding.

"This nursery was opened in 2007 by a local charitable trust - the Quaggy Development Trust and offers excellent childcare for children all year round."

A NFW book traces the fascinating history of Eltham Park South from Roman times to the Eltham Park South, A Short History' is illustrated with historic photographs and sheds light on how the park started life as a farming community during the Roman occupation.

Terry Powley, chair of the Friends of Parks Forum, and the Eltham Park Residents' Association and the Friends of Eltham Parks wrote the book. The Roman occupation continued into the Middle Ages. In the 15th Century the Crown owned most of the land - which is how Crown Woods School got its name. The land passed through different private owners, until becoming a public park in the early 1900s.

The book also chronicles the arrival of the park's Lido in 1924, until its demise in 1988. Bringing Eltham Park South into the present day, Powley explains how the efforts of enthusiastic residents have transformed it into a valuable amenity for the community.

It was awarded Green Flag status in 2010, in recognition of it being one of the best open spaces in the country. The book was sponsored by the Royal Borough of Greenwich, the Eltham Park Residents' Association and the Friends of Eltham Parks. Order a copy for £2 by ringing 07530 528069.

Greenwich Park's flower garden lake will soon be blooming once again, encouraging a wild variety of amphibious residents to return thanks to the Royal Parks, the Friends of Greenwich Park and the charity Froglife. By installing new floating rafts, which support an assortment of aquatic plants, it is hoped that frogs, toads, newts and other wildlife will come swarming back to the lake, which has been a feature since the 17th century. Joyce gets special award

LOLLIPOP lady Joyce Cooper has been helping children cross the road for a long and winding 35 years.

And at a special lunch to recognise her service to the community, the energetic 75-year-old said: "I will do this as long as I can, because

I absolutely love it!"
Joyce helps families
cross on Plumstead High Street at Conway School.
She patrolled the high street for 12 years with her husband Frank Cooper who was a lollipop man until he retired in 2008.

Plumstead-born Joyce told GT: "The best part of my job is the children, they're lovely. It wouldn't be possible without them. I've got to know families over the years and made some real friends, and the nice thing is they come back and remember me and say, 'Joycey, are you still here?' The children I helped cross are even bringing their children to meet me!"

She added: "Just a few things have changed since I started – I'm not on 50p an hour anymore! And there's more traffic now than ever before. You just don't know what'll happen from one day to the next.

"I even organised a Christmas lunch about 20 years ago. A lot of the mums didn't get a chance to go out much, so I thought it would be a treat to book a table somewhere."

At lunch, Mayor David Grant presented her with a huge bouquet of flowers and a celebratory certificate from the council.

The lollipop lady, who is still active, also received a certificate from a police officer from the MET.

"It's really nice to get recognition like this, it makes you feel appreciated," said Joyce.

Orchard Estate is set to grow

RESIDENTS on the Orchard Estate are set to benefit from a £50,000 grant to transform four areas into modern communal spaces. It follows a successful bid to the Transform Fund by the Orchard Tenants' and Residents' Association which was supported by the Royal Borough of Greenwich.

The Transform Fund provides grants to community groups in Olympic host boroughs to help them regenerate green and open spaces for community use.

The Orchard's regenerated spaces will feature an outdoor gym, new communal seated areas featuring various artworks, improved recycling facilities, the creation of an orchard growing a variety of fruit and a new community food garden.

The community garden will be open to anyone who lives on the estate to primarily grow fruit and vegetables but also plants and flowers. Educational sessions with residents will be provided by Groundwork London and will focus on sustainable living and recycling. This project will also help to boost the development of natural wildlife in the area. Works are expected to start towards the end of the summer and be completed by the end of this year.

Councillor Steve Offord, the royal borough's cabinet member for housing said: "I would like to congratulate the association and all tenants who live on the Orchard Estate on this huge achievement. These new spaces will create attractive, sustainable and flourishing areas for residents of all ages to socialise with their neighbours and a unique opportunity to learn how to grow their own fruit and vegetables.

Olympians on display

ITEMS from past Olympians are on display at a free exhibition at the Eltham Centre until August 31. Eltham in the Olympics' features personal artefacts from local athletes including diver John Baker who competed in the 1972 Munich games; blind swimmer Jim Muirhead who competed and won medals in three Paralympics in 1976, 1980 and 1984, and runner Eric Liddell whose story featured in the 1981 film Chariots of Fire.

The Eltham Centre is open seven days a week 020 8921 5641. Entrance is free of charge.

Sunny spell to work magic for growers

RESIDENTS on the Meridian estate in Greenwich hope the recent sunny spell will bring on the fruit and vegetables they are growing in their community garden.

They were given the plot of unused land behind Ballard House by the royal borough last vear, after a request on behalf of the residents by Vicky Devaney and her husband Damien. The royal borough provided them with gardening equipment, and arranged with the local Community Payback team for young offenders on probation to spend four weekends preparing the site for growing.
Since then the residents have worked together in the evenings and at weekends, and have grown vegetables like courgettes and tomatoes, fruit such as strawberries and blackberries, and herbs and flowers.

THE ANSWER'S IN THE SOIL: residents get down to work on their community garden on the Meridian estate

"Eight of us meet regularly, but we want more people to come and join us," said Vicky. 'It's a good way for locals to meet each other, and people can grow what they want." If you are interested in making better use of vour communal areas contact community participation at community-participation @greenwich.gov.uk

GREENWICH Park has been one of the biggest success stories of London 2012.

Billions of people across the world watched on television as it provided the dramatic backdrop to the equestrian events. Global audiences saw the Queen's granddaughter Zara Phillips in action in her Olympic debut, and witnessed her royal supporters, Prince William and Kate, Prince Harry and the Duchess of Cornwall, cheer her on.

Iconic images of the park, featuring the Old Royal Naval College, the National Maritime Museum, the Royal Observatory, and the nearby Cutty Sark were flashed around the

This new focus on the World Heritage Site heralds a bright future for local businesses of all shapes and sizes, a powerful boost for the local economy, and the prospect of many more new jobs being created.

Writers and critics in the UK and abroad have been quick to praise the location. BBC equestrian presenter Rishi Persad said: "Having covered the Olympics in Beijing and flying 1,200 miles to Hong Kong to cover the equestrian it is nice to have it in the heart of the host city. A lot of people will be looking for the iconic shot of the London 2012 Olympics. Greenwich Park, with its stunning backdrops of central London and historic surroundings, might offer that shot.

His BBC Sport colleague Sam Sheringham said: "The capital's oldest royal park, dating back to 1433, has been one of the Games' more controversial venues. Locals campaigned against large sections being closed to the public as they re-laid grass, landscaped features and constructed a 23,000-capacity for showjumping arena dressage.

Games organisers were determined to avoid marginalising the sport in the manner of Beijing 2008, when equestrian events took place in Hong Kong, 1,200 miles from the Chinese capital, and pushed ahead with plans to transform the 183-acre

It was hard not to understand their logic as you marvelled at the sight of the world's finest equestrian riders taking on a stunning, undulating circuit offering picture postcard-perfect London skyline." views

Alan Lee, writing in The Times, rated Greenwich Park highly for its atmosphere, good food and drink, and views, describing it as "a gem". He put it top of his ratings list, ahead of all the other Olympic venues.

said the venue aesthetically stunning, splendidly designed, and surrounded by a community clearly embracing the Games. It is the one venue where you can have a genuinely great day out without an admission ticket.

Arriving by Thames Clipper, he wrote: "The venue is only a few hundred yards away from the pier, but rushing straight on is a crime when the Old Royal Naval College looms on one side and Cutty Sark on the other.

"Yet more laid-back, the lawns of Greenwich Summer Festival lie next door, abutting the riverbank and offering the most civilised Olympics freebie I have vet seen.

"A big screen, with more wondrous college architecture behind it, shows the Olympics day and night to a lively audience in deckchairs." His final verdict: "Greenwich could surely win the most Best Kept awards. In this fortnight, it will also win a lot of hearts."

Cllr Chris Roberts, the leader Royal Greenwich, said: "When Greenwich was first suggested as an Olympic venue, many local people were nervous about the impact it would have on an historic royal park. But the action taken by the Royal Parks and the council to protect it during the eventing, and the plans to reinstate it afterwards, mean that everything has been thought through to get it back to how it was before.

Park back to its best 'in no time at all'

by Simon Banks

THE euphoria of the equestrian events at Greenwich Park will be matched by the planned operation to get the park looking its best, "in no time at all".

That's the prediction of park manager Graham Dear, who told GT: "It will be the same as it was with the test event - after just a few weeks there were no signs that an equestrian event had taken place.

Derrick Spurr, projects manager for the London 2012 Games, said:"I have been involved in the Olympic project from day one when the bid was won seven years ago. To see it taking place was priceless and a once-in-a-lifetime moment."

He added: "It's been fantastic to be a part of it all and to see how well it has gone. I don't know what I'll do when it's

The equestrian arena will be gradually dissembled and taken away by large vehicles from late September.

The ground will then be cleared and cleaned and new turf put down on the site. "Restoring the ground will make it even better than before," said Graham. "When the stadium and course route is removed, park staff will lay new turf around the end of November - weather permitting.

"Restoring the ground will make it better than before..."

"Hopefully the park will be virtually fully restored by late spring 2013. We expect the new turf to look spectacular.

There will be full access to the park's grounds and parking bays by October 1. The tennis courts, which housed the stables and warm-up ground, should be open around October 6. The gravel will be removed and the ground jet-wash cleaned.

Additional roses and grass seed will be planted in the rose garden which, with good weather, will be back to normal in seven weeks.

Derrick told GT: "The whole thing has gone extremely well. The cross-country went perfectly and I was delighted to see people enjoying the park so much, many of them for the first time, and discovering how wonderful Greenwich is."

Greenwich plays host to a different kind of sports fan...

SPORTS fans everywhere this summer. And we're not just talking about Olympic enthusiasts.

The Fan Museum on Crooms Hill has got in on the action with a display of sports-themed fans which are on show until September 9.

The exhibition explores a variety of leisure and cultural pursuits carried out by people over the centuries. They are illustrated on some truly remarkable decorative hand-held wafters. Curator Jacob Moss told Scene: "Greenwich is playing host to a number of events during the Olympics like the equestrian and gymnastics, so we felt it was only right that we celebrate the occasion showing sport and leisure throughout history.

"We have 4,500 fans in the museum, and lots of those are interesting with

TO debut new material or stick to tried-and-TO debut new material or stick to tried-and-tested gags? It's a big dilemma for comedians. And both schools of thought were at play at the Greenwich Comedy Festival. On the one hand you had the keyed-up, topical material from Tuesday's headliner Sean Lock. On the other there was Richard Herring doing exactly the same set he did at the very same festival last year. That's right, a carbon copy of the crude puerile material which was unfunny last year and was unfunny again this year. puerile material which was unfurnly last year and was unfunny again this year. It's easy to see why Lock's star has risen so quickly: he's full of energy, wit and stage presence. And he's not afraid to try new jokes.

Stints on topical shows like 8 Out of 10 Cats and Have I Got News For You have sharpened his edge, and the first half of his set was firmly rooted in summer 2012.

As he ventured into new territory in the second half of his act, he was clearly revelling in the adrenalin of untested material. Granted, it wasn't all solid gold, but we appreciated getting gags that no-one had heard before. The surprise package was Danny Bhoy, who came on with such a languid and brazen confidence that you wondered whether he'd been on the sauce. There was an uneasy silence in the room as he paused and we wondered whether this was going to be a complete car

Slow and Robbie...

Reggae duo keep crowd waiting at Indigo2's Jamaica 50 Legends gig fashionably late, but even by Sly and Robbie's laid back standards, sauntering onto the stage an hour after their bill time was a remarkable feat.

The pair kept the eager Indigo2 crowd waiting way past the playful anticipation stage at the Jamaica 50 festival on Greenwich Peninsula.

A warm-up band or two would have lively-upped the spirit of the festival, instead there was a loop of old reggae tracks played over the sound system which was pleasant but about as visually entertaining as watching a can of paint expiring. The eclectic crowd woke from its near stupor when the four came on stage. The MC reminded us why we were all here - to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Jamaica's independence. But after the long wait, one of the restless crowd quite reasonably bellowed for the band to simply get on with it.

The O2 was host to Jamaica House - the base for Jamaican fans - during the Olympics. Robbie kicked off the gig with the phrase: "Prepare to be operated on." The festive red, gold and green lights were switched on and the groove started with the tubby star playing smoothly on bass, completely in his stride. His song, Fat Girl song, romantic mid-tempo tune about wanting to find a wellproportioned was rhythmic and almost hypnotic with drumming skills, while Tyrone and Ernest were impressive on the guitar and keyboard.

The momentary pause in performance caused frustration. The stage technician hadn't sorted the sound out which got Robbie improvising by singing bass for ten minutes. He even complained of needing a glass of water for his efforts. Cheers accompanied the returning working bass onto the stage and Robbie could get on with what he did best. He's still a charismatic proposition, and was certainly the star of the show. Sly performed a frantic drum solo in the middle of the set which really raised the temperature inside the

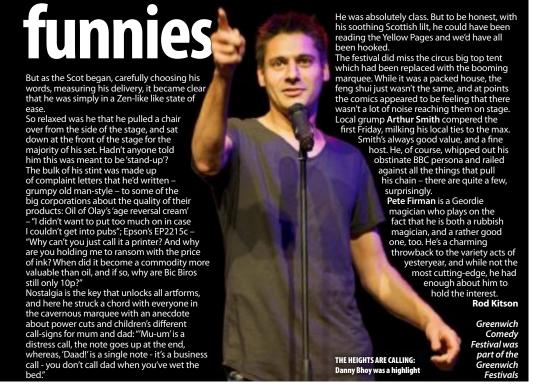

The informal banter between the artists made the atmosphere completely relaxed and it almost felt as if you were round a mate's house watching a private session. Daylight Comes, Redemption Song, Baby Can I Hold You Tonight, and No No No followed and had everyone singing along.

The climax was an interesting mini history lesson from the MC about how reggae came about, referring to rocksteady, ska and reggae, through to its modern form. Robbie finished the following proceedings to how he started "Surgery with: over." While they'd definitely performed a short surgery on us, it was with some trepidation and not to the best of their abilities, and there could've been a bit more brought to the operating table. 6/10

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 300

How the lettings policy works

Housing applicants are placed within 'Bands' according to the Royal Borough of Greenwich's policy for letting homes. Your band information is on the letter that the Council sent you when you registered, or when your circumstances changed. Property adverts say which band can apply and any other criteria. When all the bids are received, the property is then offered to: For properties advertised for band A and band B - the applicant who has had this priority status for the longest time. For properties advertised for band C applicants - the applicant who has been registered on the Council's list for the longest time.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- c is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at

Greenwich Homes

Important Notice

Changes to the rents and tenancies of some advertised housing association properties.

Affordable Housing

Currently the rent level for the properties you see advertised in Greenwich Homes is significantly lower than full market rents in private sector

From now you will now be seeing some housing association properties advertised for higher rents, up to eighty percent of the market rent. These rents will also include the service charge that you will need to pay for the property. We will use the phrase Affordable Housing on the adverts to help you identify these properties.

Please note the Council will continue to advertise all the homes it owns at the standard rent level.

You can bid for properties advertised as Affordable Housing in exactly the same way as for other advertised properties. If you are successful the housing association may want to check you have enough income to pay the higher rent, whether you are working or on benefits. If you are currently a housing association tenant the rent you pay on your present home will not be affected by this change.

Fixed term tenancies

You will also notice that the tenancies for Affordable Housing and some other housing association properties may now be for a shorter period than the present lifetime tenancies offered by housing associations. The phrase Fixed term tenancy will be used in the adverts to identify these properties. The tenancy details will be explained to you if you are successful when you view the property.

Please think about these changes when bidding for an Affordable housing property and make sure you can afford the home that you choose.

Olympic demonstration team trains in Kidbrooke

Olympics could not be more appro-

Along with Judo, Taekwondo has been in the Olympics since 2000 after being a demonstration sport at the Seoul Games in 1988.

Through an interpreter, team manager Choe Dong Sung told GT: "It is the first time we have demonstrated at an Olympic venue and we are all excited and a little nervous. We will be appearing three times a day over four days, and it is also very nice to be here in Greenwich.

"Everyone has been very friendly and we are very proud to be showing our national sport to so many people across the world. Everyone in Korea learns taekwondo when they are children and it is very good to teach them respect. It is good for selfdefence but also for self-discipline, so we have no fighting on our streets

Cllr Peter Kotz, cabinet member for culture and the Olympics, said: "It was an honour to have this world-renowned team here. The central idea of respect is one that we can all learn from and I know that it is very popular in many of our schools

Olympic demo team trains at Thomas Tallis

by Peter Cordwell

A VERY special and uplifting air of friendship and respect swept into the royal borough when a team of young taekwondo athletes who thrilled Olympic audiences with their skills rehearsed at the Thomas Tallis gym in Kidbrooke.

Maybe it reflected the brave new era being welcomed into the area as the Kidbrooke Village development slowly takes shape around the school in Kidbrooke Park Road.

The mixed World Taekwondo Federation (WTF) demonstration team from South Korea - ages ranging from 12 to 19 - stopped off at Tallis following a world record display by our own "Mr Taekwondo" - David Carmichael - in May.

"After that I was asked by British Taekwondo to find a local venue for the WTF team." said David, who has introduced the sport to numerous local schools, "and the obvious choice was Thomas Tallis.

"Taekwondo is the national sport in South Korea and the central word everyone uses with it is respect, so I think their appearance here during
